Live Doctor On Call

Worried about your employee's health? Ease your worry by giving them 24/7/365 access to a virtual health and wellness program in just one monthly membership

Consultation is more than merely informing people. It can involve responding to employee concerns and involving employees in assessing and improving workplace health and safety. In certain situations, employers must consult about health and safety issues with employees and health and safety representatives (HSRs) if they have them.

52,000 workers suffering from work-related ill health:

musculoskeletal disorders (43%), stress, depression or anxiety (31%) and other illness (26%). Truck drivers were twice as likely to be obese compared to other US workers. (www.redcross.com)

Being obese, or overweight, can increase the risk of other health problems, such as:

- Heart disease
- Diabetes
- Hypertension
- High cholesterol
- Sleep apnea
